Background Information:

Junior Forest Ranger (JFR) crew members will learn skills and work either in a remote camp, for seven weeks. The mandate of the program encompasses the fields of forestry, natural resource management, environmental science, and youth development. Crews of six will expand their awareness of our natural resources through exposure to work projects, educational opportunities, traditional practices, and wilderness adventure. Crew members are team players, independent, physically fit, patient and respectful.

In your opinion, explain to what extent the applicant has shown interest in natural resources and/or outdoor recreation. (Please explain or attach a letter)

In your opinion, describe initiatives the applicant is involved with in school (athletics or other programs), community, and/or volunteering. (Please explain or attach a letter)

--

In your opinion, how does the applicant contribute in a team/group environment? (Please explain or attach a letter)
